GRAND JURORS REPORTED TO COURT TODAY

Four True Bills Found by Inquisitors in Two-Day Session

The grand jury for the January term of the Lee county circuit court reported their findings to Judge Albert H. Manus this morning at 11 o'clock after two days of deliberation. The body was excused subject to recall if necessary and Judge Manus commended the jurors for their prompt consideration of cases submitted to them for investigation. The following true bills were returned:

Walter Kendzior, Frank Merklinger, Joseph Stankiewicz and Amos Bishop, Dixon state hospital patients, burglary and larceny, bonds fixed at $2,000 each.

Walter Eastabrooks, leaving the scene of an accident, bonds fixed at $1,000.

LaVal Shank, assault with a deadly weapon, bond fixed at $1,000.

Lee Houston, embezzlement, bond fixed at $2,000.

Howard Piper, larceny, bond fixed at $2,000.

John Camery, larceny, bond fixed at $1,000.

Eastabrooks appeared before the court this morning and furnished bond and a motion for a continuance of his hearing will be filed Monday morning.

Camery to Prison

John Camery of this city, who has been a prisoner in the county jail for several weeks, held on a charge of destroying and taking a motor belonging to Dixon township, was returned to the Joliet state penitentiary this morning.

State Parole Officer Clyde Rorra of Kewanee came to Dixon and returned Camery to the penitentiary for violation of his parole.

Judge Manus and court reporter Albert Hanneken will go to Mt. Carroll tomorrow to preside at the opening of the Carroll county circuit court. Judge Harry Edwards, who has been presiding at Oregon, will occupy the bench here tomorrow and Judge Frank J. Sheehan of Galena will preside at Oregon.

Defendants indicted by the grand jury were to be arraigned before the court this afternoon to arrange for bond.

The grand jury completed its investigation this morning after visiting the county jail and inspecting the court house, reporting to the court having found all county property to be in excellent condition and commending those in charge.

BURLINGTON RY. TRAIN BOMBED IN MINER WAR

Fourteenth Outrage of Kind in "Egypt" is Reported Today

Waltonville, Ill., Jan. 9. —(AP)—Another railroad bombing early today, the fourteenth since last August attributed to the bitter Illinois mine union feud, derailed the engine and sixteen empty coal cars of a south bound Chicago, Burlington & Quincy freight train two miles south of here.

Although the engine overturned, railroad officials said the crew escaped serious injury by jumping.

C. J. Jones of Centralia, the fireman, suffered slight bruises received when he jumped from the cab but the engineer, John Timmerman, escaped unharmed. The train was reported to be carrying a load of coal.

It was the fourth railroad bombing in the Illinois "mine war zone" within the past three weeks and the second bombing in this immediate vicinity in two weeks.

On December 28 a bomb catapulted an empty C. B. & Q. coal train from the tracks at Woodlawn a few miles north of here.

The other two recent bombings occurred near Springfield on the Chicago & Illinois Midland railroad the latest only last Sunday morning when a train went through a dynamited trestle at Central, north of Springfield.

Mark Smith to Enter Race for Mayoralty

Mark D. Smith, building contractor and former mayor of Dixon today joined the ranks of those submitting their candidacies to the voters of the city at the spring primaries. Mr. Smith took out his petition from City Clerk Blake C. Grover's office this morning as a candidate for mayor. Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson has also taken out a petition and will seek reelection to that office in the spring. There are now four candidates in the field for the office of mayor, four for commissioner and two for police magistrate.

Federal Agents Killed Suspect in Kidnaping of Rich St. Paul Banker

Russell Gibson Shot Down Near Dilling-er's Death Scene

Chicago, Jan. 9. —(AP)—Federal agents have struck with deadly accuracy again, in their war on crime—this time to kill Russell Gibson, 32-year-old suspect in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker.

Trapped in a northside apartment last night, Gibson, an ex-convict, and reputed member of the abduction gang of Alvin Karpis and Arthur Barker, attempted to shoot it out with a picked squad of sixteen agents, but his miniature machine gun jammed and he fell mortally wounded.

Two bullets from the rifles of the federal men hit their mark, though Gibson was wearing a "bullet proof vest." The bullet penetrated the vest. Gibson died in a hospital early today.

Attempted Flight

Gibson attempted to flee out of the back door of the apartment, but was shot at the spot where John Dillingham was shot and killed July 22, only to meet the withering fire of the agents. Gibson fired as he ran, but was able to shoot but one bullet before his weapon failed.

Meanwhile the agents had flooded the apartment with tear gas, forcing the surrender of a man and a woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Clara Gibson, widow of the gangster.

The man was identified by the Department of Justice today as Byron Bolton, a former sailor receiving partial disability payments from the government.

Harold Nathan, assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Bolton was a minor member of the gang. Bolton at first identified himself as Willie Harrison, a former St. Louis golf professional.

Federal agents said Bolton, who is 32 years old, is also known as Monty Carter and that he formerly lived at Thayer, Ill.

Watched for Week

The raid was the culmination of a week's surveillance over the apartment, where Gibson had been living for three months. How the agents discovered his whereabouts was not disclosed.

Under direction of E. J. Connelly and others, the agents surrounded the place before attempting to get their man. When they knocked, there was no answer, but almost at the same time Gibson dashed out the rear door.

Before he died he was questioned, but admitted nothing except the identity of himself and his wife, and to name his male companion as "Willie." He refused to answer other questions.

One tear gas went through the window of the home of Jay H. Twitchell, who lives in an adjoining apartment.

Twitchell climbed out a window, with upraised hands, shouting that he surrendered. He was released when he proved his identity.

Gas Drove Them Out

Mrs. Gibson, with her pet dog, staggered out of the apartment, gasping and crying. Gibson's male companion also ran out, tears rolling down his cheeks. Both were taken to the department of justice offices for questioning.

Nathan said that several weapons were found in the apartment, with ammunition.

In addition to the Bremer kidnaping Gibson was wanted for the robbery of $75,000 from a bank messenger in Oklahoma City carrying funds from the American First National bank May 24, 1929.

He escaped from the Oklahoma county jail in August 1929.

He served a two year term in the Missouri state penitentiary for flourishing a deadly weapon in 1927.

Family Quarrel Over Kentucky Land Leads to Murder of Seven and Later to Suicide of Slayer This Morning

Mt. Vernon, Ky., Jan. 9. —(AP)—George Collett, who went berserk during the night and shot to death seven persons made his will and killed himself today rather than surrender to a posse.

Collett killed his wife and four of her family, then fled two other persons and wounded an eighth before making a frantic effort to escape from the Copper creek community.

A family quarrel over land was blamed at Sheriff D. C. Clark's office for the slayings of Mrs. Collett's kin. Officers believed that the other two slayings were due to attempts to block Collett from stealing an automobile in which to escape.

Sheriff Clark led a posse after Collett and Assistant General H. H. Denhardt left Frankford with a detachment of state troops and ordered another from Harrodsburg to surround the man. They were recalled as soon as it was learned Collett was dead.

The dead in addition to Collett: Mrs. Stella Collett, 28, wife of the slayer.

William Helton, 65, Mrs. Collett's father.

Mrs. William Helton, 60, Ellen Helton, 23, a daughter, Howard Helton, 26, a son, Julius Bordis, 52, postmaster at Clay Orchard.

Mrs. Julius Bordis, 52.

FORMER AMBOY TEACHER DIED IN SPRINGFIELD

Burial of Miss Jean Carroll Will Take Place Friday

(Telegraph Special Service)

Amboy, Jan. 9. —The people of this city and community were greatly shocked late yesterday by the death of Miss Jean Carroll at Springfield at 2:15 Tuesday morning after an illness of but three days.

Pneumonia was the cause of death. Miss Carroll was a native of Amboy and for many years was a beloved and successful teacher in the Amboy schools. Her parents were Michael and Margaret Carroll. Eighteen or twenty years ago she resigned her position in the local schools to accept a position in the state house at Springfield, which place she kept until her death. The funeral party will arrive in Amboy at 11 A. M. Friday and will go at once to Prairie Re-posal cemetery where interment will be made in the family lot following brief services at the chapel, conducted by Rev. E. M. Edwards, pastor of the First Methodist church here.

DEVINE MADE SPEAKER BY NASH'S ORDER

Veteran Dixon Legislator Given High Honor by Colleagues

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9. —(AP)—John P. Devine of Dixon, winner of the speakership fight, was ready to wield the gavel today in the Illinois house of representatives.

The veteran attorney, who has served 22 years in the house, owed his success in large part to the strategy of Patrick A. Nash, Democratic National Committeeman, who threw the Cook county delegation to him just before the first ballot was to be taken at the Democratic caucus last night.

The other three candidates then withdrew and Devine was nominated for speaker by acclamation.

Nash, who ran the caucus by telephone from the executive mansion, also triumphed when the Democratic senators again decided upon another term as president pro tem for Richey V. Graham of Cicero, son-in-law of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago.

Elected at Noon

Formal election of Devine and Graham took place at noon when the 59th general assembly organized and heard Governor Horner read a 16,000 word message.

Right up to the convening of the caucus, Nash and his Chicago delegation insisted they had but one purpose—the election of James P. Boyle to whom Cook county's 35 votes were pledged.

While nominating speeches were being made Thomas P. Sinnott of Rock Island and Boyle were galled to telephones.

Boyle received orders from Nash to withdraw and support Devine.

"It's all over," Sinnott said to reporters as he re-entered the caucus. "Nash told me he was supporting Devine so there's nothing for me to do but withdraw." Boyle and F. W. Lewis of Robinson also swung to Devine. The Dixon legislator was then nominated by acclamation.

Limit Graham's Power

Downstate Democratic senators had sought in find ways to prevent Graham's re-nomination as president pro tem, but the selection of a downstate for speaker changed the picture. Graham was renominated.

The downstate determined to limit his authority. So a committee on committees was named, consisting of three downstate and two Chicagoans, which will exercise the power given to the senate president during the past two years of naming committees.

The committee on committees is expected to "pack" other senate committees with a majority of downstate.

Selection of Devine for speaker opened the way for a Chicagoan to win the nomination for floor leader and that post was awarded to Benjamin Adamowski, 28-year-old attorney, who handled most of the Cook county legislation in the last assembly.

Graham's renomination for the senate presidency called for the selection of a downstate for floor leader in the upper chamber so Rollo Shaw of Lawrenceville, was re-nominated.

Republican Leaders

New leaders from downstate had charge of the reduced Republican minority today as the legislature convened, Rep. LeRoy M. Green of Rockford and Senator Earl B. Seary of Springfield promising to stiffen the opposition to the Horner administration on partisan measures.

Green was picked for minority leader in the house by a three-vote margin, 33 to 30, at the caucus last night, replacing Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago.

"Let's make more trouble for the Democrats" was the slogan as Green received the almost solid support of his downstate colleagues.

The veteran Republican who served for years as president pro tem of the Senate, Richard J. Barr of Joliet, was not a candidate for his job as floor leader and Seary was elected without contest.

The switch from Barr to Seary, started nearly a year ago, was made with the contention that the old leadership was a cooperating too closely with the Democratic majority.

Sixteen Injured in Peculiar Accident This Morning

Hudsonville, Mich., Jan. 9. —(AP)—Sixteen persons were burned, some seriously, when a motor transport loaded with paint exploded on the highway between here and Zeeland today, showering the driver and spectators with flaming liquid.

The truck and semi-trailer was bound from Chicago to Grand Rapids, with a cargo of canned paint.

Suddenly, witnesses said, a "sheet of flame" shot out from the truck, followed by three explosions which enveloped the crowd with fire. One man said he saw "a ball of fire" strike a man in the face.

The fire started while the driver was attempting to transfer a reserve supply of gasoline to the main tank.

Says Defendant is Man to Whom He Paid Lindbergh Ransom Money After Meeting and Talking With Him in Bronx Cemetery

Aged Educator Tells of His Efforts to Recover Baby

BULLETIN

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 9. —(AP)—A motion by chief defense counsel Edward J. Reilly for a mistrial in the case of Bruno Hauptmann was denied today by Justice Thomas W. Trenchard.

BY WILLIAM A. KINNEY

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 9.—Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon today identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man with whom he negotiated the Lindbergh ransom, and as the man to whom he later paid the ransom of $50,000.

From the witness stand in the trial of Hauptmann for the kidnaping and murder of baby Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., the elderly Bronx educator shook a finger and said:

"John" is Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Only a little later, after identifying notes exchanged between himself and the then mysterious "John" Dr. Condon added to his identification by saying that Hauptmann was the man who met him and sat on a bench with him for an hour in Van Cortlandt park sometime before the ransom was paid.

Al Reich, the ex-prize fighter who was Jafie's aide and companion during the ransom negotiations, went back to the witness chair to complete his account at the start of the session.

Crowd Jammed Doors

The crowd was so great that Sheriff John H. Curtiss checked all courtroom passes at the entrance of the courthouse and again at the courtroom.

Justice Trenchard, who arrived with his usual punctuality, had difficulty making his way through the press of spectators.

Even Hauptmann's path was crowded as he was led in by his guards, and he had to thread his way carefully through the pack. Pale as usual, he wore a far-away expression until his wife arrived and sat nearby him. Then his features softened as he smiled at her. Mrs. Hauptmann's eyes looked tired and her face was deeply lined. They talked together.

Reich started his testimony by telling of the night of April 2, 1932, when the ransom was paid.

Lindbergh Drove Car

He was asked if he drove the car to the ransom payment spot.

"Col. Lindbergh drove the car," he said, explaining "I suggested they use my car."

The $400 radio taken from Hauptmann's Bronx home and the chest of carpenter's tools found in his garage were in the courthouse for use as exhibits later in the day.

Directed by Wilentz, Reich told of the preparation of the $70,000 ransom money in the box ordered by the kidnaper.

"I was there when it was packed. I helped bring it up that afternoon from the banker's home," he detailed.

Wilentz then turned the witness over to Reilly for cross-examination.

Dr. Condon Called

Dr. Condon was called to the stand at 10:28 A. M.

Dr. Condon first answered Wilentz' question:

Q. How old are you doctor?

A. 74 years of age the first of last June.

Q. And where do you live?

A. In the most beautiful borough in the world—

Dr. Condon's answer was cut short by a demand from defense counsel that it be stricken from the record.

Condon then said Hauptmann was the "John" of the ransom payment.

Following his identification he

- HORNER PROGRAM -

(Story on Page 7)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—(AP)—In his message to the 59th General Assembly, Gov. Horner today recommended:

Immediate appropriation of the $9,000,000 treasury surplus to unemployment relief.

Delayed action on further relief financing until President Roosevelt's program for work relief takes definite form.

Extension until July 1 of the law under which part of the gas tax funds are being diverted to school districts.

No increased appropriations to school districts until a comprehensive plan of educational reform is developed.

Approval of the principles of old age pensions and unemployment relief, with action delayed until the President's plan is submitted to Congress.

Licensing of automobile drivers to promote safety on highways.

State Regulation of motor buses and trucks, with a view of producing revenue.

Consolidation of governmental activities, as was done with the Chicago park districts.

Reapportionment of congressional and Supreme Court districts.

A constitutional amendment which would permit reapportionment of the legislature so that Cook county would have a majority in the House of Representatives and downstate districts a majority in the Senate.

Further efforts to call a constitutional convention and amend the constitution's revenue article.

Passage of most of the legislation sponsored by the state federation of labor.

was led abruptly into the ransom notes.

When Wilentz handed him the shaggy "Jafie" ransom notes to identify, the educator adjusted his glasses and examined the notes with meticulous care for several minutes before identifying them.

Wilentz took the ransom notes to the jury box and read the four women and eight men the first communication "Jafie" received from the kidnaper.

It read:

Beacon Shining Across "Old Man River" Will Brighten Memories of Mark Twain

Roosevelt to Press Key, Turn
On Light at Hannibal, Mo.Centennial to Revive Glory

By NEA Service—

Hannibal, Mo.—On the night of Jan. 15 a white light will stream out over the surface of "Old Man River." Rivermen will see its beacon every night during the coming year, reaching out from the height of Cardiff Hill.

Its purpose is two-fold: First, to guide rivermen as their boats pass Hannibal on the twisting, treacherous Mississippi; and second, to commemorate another light which first shone nearby, at Florida, Mo., 100 years ago, but whose beams cast a glow over the entire literary world through the writings of Mark Twain.

President Roosevelt in Washington will press a golden key that turns on the light in the memorial lighthouse in Hannibal, Gov. Guy B. Park is to be in Hannibal that night, and so are many other celebrities, to honor the man whose boyhood in Hannibal led him to create those monarchs of the world of boyhood, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

Later in the year there will be a pageant and homecoming at Hannibal, and a big literary banquet attracting writers of today.

CRITICISM

By Joseph Fort Newton

It was refreshing to read these words about Virginia Woolf the other day, because the art of the critic too often concerns itself with mere pulling to pieces and finding fault!

"She is a great critic, because her criticism is always creative, and though occasionally she is ready to blame her author, she yet manages to leave intact, to show as worthy, the task which he attempted, whether he accomplished it or not."

If carried into our daily life, such a principle would set half the jolting wheels of the world on to a smooth macadam-laid road. In other words, Virginia Woolf praises people for what they try to do, instead of blaming them when their art does not equal their ideal.

Hutton said that "if a man had a strong interest in the routine and detail of life, Carlyle called him sawdust. If he had a profound belief in any popular ideas beyond those acknowledged by himself, Carlyle probably called him moonshine."

No doubt he was unfair to Carlyle, but he hit the nail on the head for most of us. We are so apt to make the limits of our own preference the boundaries of right and reason, and to dismiss as sawdust or moonshine all that does not fit into our scale of values.

One preacher is heavy, another hazy. This book is too matter of fact, that too mystical. What a pity that we should label others according to our own likes and can teach us most!

Said Stuart Mill, "I did not deem competent to judge Carlyle. He was a poet, I am not; he was a man of intuition, which I am not; and as such it is highly probable that he could see many things which are

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND

Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Prevention of Colds at School

First of all, to keep colds out of the school it is essential that parents cooperate by keeping children at home when the earliest signs of a cold appear. There is no measure quite as effective as this.

At school, the temperature of the room should be kept around 68 degrees. Hot, dry air increases the chances of taking cold. Wet clothing should be removed and every school should provide some means, however crude, for drying clothes. "Bundling" should be avoided by regulation. I mean by that, that an inflexible rule should prohibit the wearing of sweaters, windbreakers, rubbers and the like in the classroom.

All pupils with signs of cold should be excluded. It is only in this way that spread can be limited to a few cases. The exchange of pencils, pen holders and small utensils that can be put in the mouth must be prohibited. With a little patience teachers can educate children to cover the nose and mouth while coughing or sneezing, but when that stage is reached such children shouldn't be in school.

Water drinking should be encouraged. Fresh milk and the fruit juices are excellent preventives as well as remedies. Correct diets and home measures should be the subject of class projects and discussions. Finally, the teacher should herself set a good example.

How the modern school can aid the health of children will be the subject of Dr. Ireland's next article.

DRINK PASTEURIZED MILK

Phidians Were Entertained by Mrs. E. H. Prince on Tuesday

The Phidian Art Club was entertained on Tuesday by Mrs. E. H. Prince.

The paper for the afternoon, "The Ballet," was most ably given by Mrs. A. F. Moore.

The development of ballet was traced from its earliest appearance in religious ritual to current productions.

The influence of the Russian Imperial Schools for the ballet at Moscow and Leningrad cannot be overestimated. These schools were organized early in the eighteenth century, and are still functioning under the Soviet regime.

Mrs. Moore vividly presented the contributions to the ballet by such diverse historical personages as Peter the Great, Catherine de Medici, Isadora Duncan, Pavlova and Nijinsky.

Mrs. Moore's own knowledge of music contributed to the success of her paper, particularly in the effective descriptions of the most famous classical and modern ballets.

Tea was served with Mrs. George Shaw and Mrs. W. D. Hart pouring.

Election for So. Dixon Com. Club

The South Dixon Community club held its first meeting of the year with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fischer of the Peoria Road, and at this time the election of officers was also held.

At noon a delicious oast pork and chicken dinner was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Walter Origien and Mrs. Arnold Gottle.

After songs and roll call, the election of officers for 1935 was held as follows:

President—Mrs. Roy Fischer.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. L. F. Henry.
Sec. and Treas.—Mrs. Arnold Gottle.

Chairman of Supper Committee—Mrs. John Patterson.
Planner—Mrs. Walter Origien.

All members appreciate the duties of the retired president, Mrs. Origien, which she so ably filled for the last three years.

One visitor, Mrs. Don Hollingsworth, was in attendance.
The next meeting will be on January 16th, with Mrs. Dave Moore on the Peoria Road.

Miss Polkowski to Address M. E. Auxiliary

A cordial invitation is extended to all mothers to attend the Mothers' Auxiliary which will meet at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church. The speaker at this meeting will be Miss Polkowski, psychologist at the Dixon State Hospital. Mrs. Goff will conduct the devotional service. Miss Eleanor Brown interests the children visitors at each meeting so the mothers may enjoy the program.

Plans are being made for a family frolic night with a picnic supper and a social time instead of the regular meeting in February. All who are interested, please keep this in mind and plan to come and share the pleasure of that evening. The date will be announced later.

Neighborhood Club Made Four Quilts At Meeting Tuesday

The Neighborhood Club enjoyed a meeting with Mrs. Eugene Warner Tuesday. The ladies of this club were very busy at this meeting, for they tied and completely finished four comforters for the Emergency Relief headquarters, being able to set up two frames in the Warner home. They expect to do more work of this kind. Yesterday they combined work and pleasure and enjoyed at noon a delicious picnic dinner.

REBEKAH LODGE TO MEET FRIDAY EVENING

Meeting St. James Aid With Mrs. Anna Bothe on Wednesday

The first meeting of the year, of the St. James Aid Society was held on Jan. 2nd, at the home of Mrs. Anna Bothe, with Mrs. Clarence Bothe and Mrs. Harry Ream, assisting. A sumptuous picnic dinner was served at noon.

At 2 o'clock the new president, Miss Mandana Green, called the meeting to order. After a short business meeting the program committee took charge and presented the following program:

A group of readings by Miss Vivian Wolfram; Christmas rhyme by Charlotte Anne Bothe; reading "Youth's Opinion," by Mrs. Amy Wolfram.

During the recreation period Mrs. Wolfram conducted several contests which were greatly enjoyed. All departed feeling that a most enjoyable day had been spent at the Bothe home.

The February meeting is to be held with Mrs. Chas. Briemer.

O. E. S. School Instruction Tues.

Byron, Ill., Jan. 9—A school of instruction for newly installed officers of Byron chapter No. 394, Order of Eastern Star, will be held at the Masonic hall here Tuesday, Jan. 15, with Mrs. Rhea Dahl of Savanna in charge. Mrs. Maud Wallem is chairman of the supper to be served at 8:30 P. M.

O. E. S. installed its new officers at Masonic hall Monday evening, following a 6:30 o'clock supper. Mrs. Ina Frailey, a past matron, acted as installing officer. Mrs. Ardis Linn Sherman as marshal and Mrs. Bertha Linn as chaplain. Mrs. Ruth Hess Alden was installed as worthy matron and Harry Bittner as worthy patron.

Installation for The Byron R. N. A.

Byron, Ill., Jan. 9—Installation of newly elected officers of the Royal Neighbors camp were held at the community house Friday afternoon. The following officers were installed: Orville, Mabel Gill; vice orator, Margaret Cunningham; chancellor, Kate Lockwood; past orator, Helen Spoor; recorder, Florence Coffman; marshal, Gussie Gill; inner sentinel, Anna Mills; outer sentinel, Mollie Angell; recorder, Florence Noyes. Mrs. Helen Spoor was installing officer, and Mrs. Florence Noyes installing marshal. A dinner was served at 6:30 P. M.

Miss Friar of DeKalb Is to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. John Friar of DeKalb announce the engagement of their daughter, Mabel Edith, to Edgar W. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Brown of DeKalb. Miss Friar attended Emerson college in Boston. Mr. Friar, whose father is a former president of Northern Illinois State Teachers college at DeKalb, is a graduate of Harvard university where he was a member of the Fifty-Four club. He is engaged in newspaper work.

Beauty Marred By Nervousness

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

The calm, relaxed woman generally is much more beautiful than one who is tense and who constantly makes nervous gestures with face and hands. Vivacity—a grand quality in anyone—is not synonymous with nervousness and it's quite possible to be alert and enthusiastic, yet not flustered.

For the sake of beauty and the health, everyone should learn to relax. If you possibly can, get into a peaceful frame of mind while you're eating breakfast and try to maintain that serene outlook on life the rest of the day.

Naturally this isn't as easy as it sounds. We all have worries, of course, and to control ourselves so that our troubles won't put lines on our faces is something we have to learn to do. The last first step, probably, is to get a bit philosophical about daily duties and unavoidable minor troubles. It is possible to be efficient in your work, above reproach as far as social obligations are concerned, without getting into a state of nervous excitement ten times a day.

Remember that the right amount of sleep is about the best tonic in the world. Try to sleep eight hours each night and be sure it's the kind of sleep that makes you feel rested and in a cheerful mood in the morning.

If, day after day, you get up as tired as you were when you went to bed, start a sweeping investigation. Maybe the bed is uncomfortable. Perhaps the room is improperly ventilated. If conditions are right and still your insomnia persists, better see your doctor.

Ebens-Miller Wedding Saturday
Mr. and Mrs. Claus Ebens of Monroe Center announce the marriage of their daughter, Irene Claudine, to Harold L. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of rural route 9, Rockford, which took place Saturday afternoon at the parish house of Elm Reformed church at Kings, the Rev. Mr. Danekas officiating.

MRS. CRAGGS WAS HERE FOR HOLIDAYS
Mrs. Wayne Craggs, the former Alice Powell of Dixon, was here from her home in Knokshstown, Ind., to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Rowena Powell and her brother, Robert. Friends will be pleased to learn of a nice promotion which has recently been given Mrs. Craggs.

Different Circles M. E. Aid to Meet on Friday

The different Circles of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 as follows:

Circle 1—With Mrs. W. E. Whitson, 515 Highland Ave.
Circle 2—Mrs. Robert Ayres, 1303 Third street.
Circles 3 and 4—Joint meeting with Mrs. E. J. Brown, 804 Palmyra Ave., and a picnic dinner at 1 o'clock. Meat, potatoes and coffee will be furnished, otherwise picnic rules will prevail.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER SUNDAY EVENING
Miss Ellen Healy of 708 Madison Avenue delightfully entertained eight guests at dinner Sunday evening.

BEHIND WILD PROPOSALS IS PUBLIC DISCONTENT

You can work up a healthy little nightmare for yourself, if that sort of diversion interests you, by sitting down quietly and imagining what would happen if, by some freak of chance, all the wild and woolly bills pending in Congress should become law.

Suppose, for instance, that the Townsend old-age pension plan, the 30-hour week bill, the greenback-bonus bill, and a measure providing for widespread unemployment insurance financed by a stiff payroll tax should be passed and should be signed by the president or passed over his veto.

Simply to meditate on the resultant tangle in governmental and industrial finance is enough to make one start looking for the nearest cyclone cellar.

Of course, there is no use in getting steamed up about it, because, while one of these measures may get through the hopper, there simply isn't a Chinaman's chance that they all will.

But the important thing is to think of what these various bills represent, and not of what their chances for becoming law may be.

Behind these measures there is a great body of public sentiment which may be confused, misguided, and somewhat thoughtless, but which nevertheless represents the making of a great decision by the American people.

This decision is, simply, that the difficult times of the last four years are altogether too difficult to be endured again.

That is to say that the people generally do not intend to put up with a repetition of that era of declining payrolls, declining living standards, declining bank accounts, and general all-around hardship.

They may have only the foggiest of notions how to prevent it, but they are determined to prevent it somehow; and the result is a demand for legislation which may be completely illogical, but which cannot be defeated by mere argument.

Unless Congress and the administration can agree on some program which gives a fair promise of protecting the average man from the cruelties of hard times, the sentiment which supports these measures will continue to gather strength.

That is the important thing to remember. There is very little real chance that our government will adopt a law, for instance, paying $200 a month to every American over 60 years of age.

But unless the government understands why such a law is demanded, and does something about it, we may find ourselves passing a much worse law than that a few years hence.

TRUTH IN FICTION

Oscar Wilde, or somebody, once remarked that nature mimics art; by which, of course, he meant that whereas a writer of fiction may invent a happening which sounds utterly improbable and fantastic, if we wait long enough we shall see the happening duplicated in real life.

In that sprightly comic strip, "Freckles," there has recently been an episode in which someone dropped revolver cartridges into the coal tender of a railway train. The fireman subsequently shoveled some of these into the fire box along with the coal; they exploded, and a man was shot.

Did it sound somewhat improbable? Perhaps. But just the other day Baltimore police reported that a woman met her death in almost precisely the same way.

In some manner, a loaded cartridge fell into a wastebasket and was tossed into the furnace. When the woman went down to put coal on the fire, the cartridge went off and she was fatally shot.

Once more, life duplicated the seemingly far-fetched invention of the artist.

AN EXAMPLE FOR AMERICA

The French, they are a funny race, according to a ditty the A. E. F. used to warble in its lighter moments. But in some fields these Frenchmen seem to have pretty sound ideas.

For example: The French Ministry of Posts, Telegraphs, and Telephones announced at the start of the year that hereafter no advertising will be included in any French radio broadcasts. This ruling was made after the ministry had received numerous protests from radio fans.

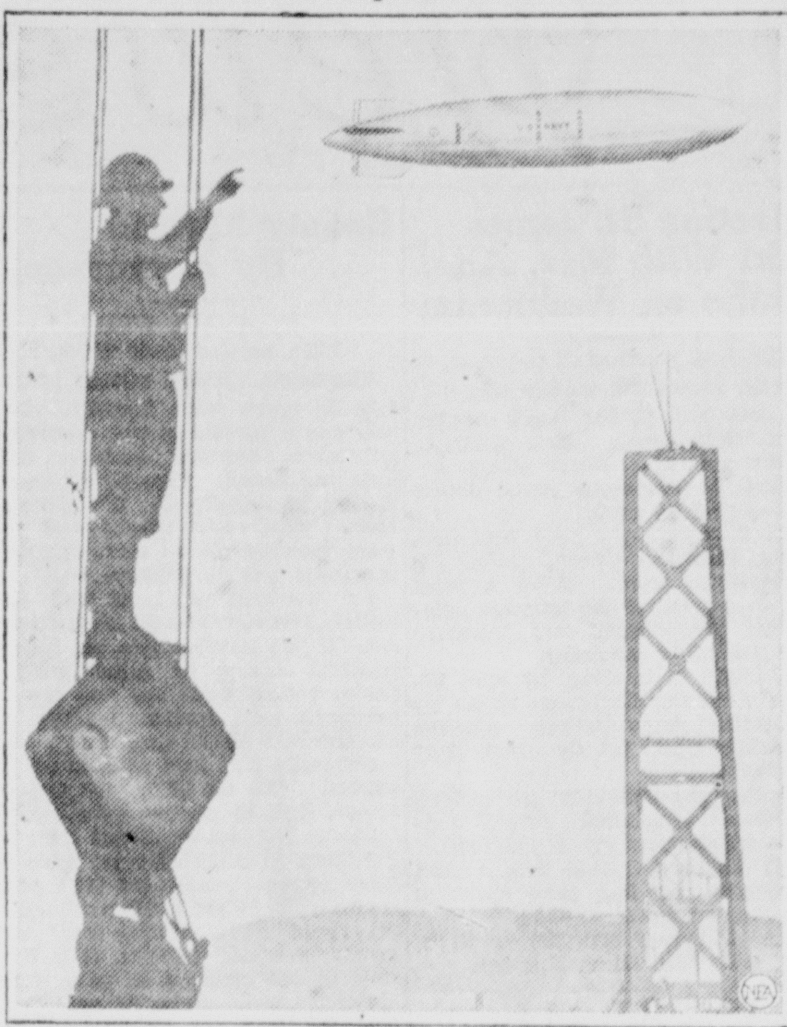

The luckless American, resignedly weary of soupy voices invading his living room to sprout improbabilities about so-and-so's soap or whoozit's face cream, may be pardoned for feeling that the French aren't so doggone funny as the A. E. F. sometimes supposed.

The ability to analyze and a good memory are the two important things which make the difference between a good checker player and an expert.—Asa Long, world checker champ.

People should be allowed to make money during a war, but they shouldn't be allowed to keep it.—Bernard M. Baruch.

Democracy, which seemed so triumphant in 1920, has disappeared, except in a few favored lands.—Marquess of Lothian.

Paying the silent homage of one sky denizen to a greater one, this steel worker stands silhouetted 500 feet above the earth, intently watching the progress of the U. S. S. Macon, naval dirigible, as it escorts the American battle fleet into San Francisco bay. As shown in this air picture, the worker is perched on a tower of the Oakland-San Francisco bay bridge, with a view spread before him beyond the imagination of any mere earth dweller.

FRANKLIN GROVE

By Grace Pearl.

Franklin Grove — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shoemaker were dinner guests Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Patch, west of town; the occasion was the birthday anniversary of Roy.

The Aid and Missionary societies of the Methodist church will have their supper Jan. 19, in the church basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schafer and son Junior were supper guests Friday night in Ashton at the home of his father, G. W. Schafer.

Mrs. Richard Smith and infant son have returned from the Amboy hospital and are staying at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Smith.

The Sunbeam class of the Presbyterian Sunday school held their monthly business meeting and class party Saturday afternoon, at the home of Miss Georgia Peterman.

The meeting was opened by the president Miss Mary Jean Miller. Miss Georgia Peterman read the scripture lesson after which the Lord's prayer was repeated. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Marie Black. During the business session it was decided to give a Musical Tea in the early part of February.

Games were played. Miss Eleanor Yocum won first prize and Miss Muriel Kness, second. Lovely refreshments were served consisting of tuna fish in patty shells, cookies, pickles, sandwiches and cocoa. The next meeting will be held the first Saturday of February at the home of Miss Florence Blekking.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller and daughter Miss Eunice, Mrs. Rebecca Cowell and daughter Miss Blanche attended the Hillside Community Club meeting Friday night at the home of Joe Gilbert and his sister Miss Eunice and family. About fifty were present. A good program was enjoyed after which refreshments were served.

Miss Marjorie Fruit returned to Evanston Sunday afternoon, where on Monday she began her school work.

Miss Bertha Heidle, who has been enjoying the holiday vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Reigel, returned to Chicago Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. LaForrest Meredith returned home Sunday from a two weeks' visit at the home of her son Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacManus, in New York City. While in the east they visited Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Speck, former residents of this place. They report them as well.

Mrs. Speck's mother, Mrs. Mary Bratton was not enjoying very good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Helmershausen returned to Chicago Sunday afternoon after having spent the holidays at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. George Blocher, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bennett of this place attended the funeral of Mrs. Miles Beck in Rochelle Saturday afternoon, Rev. O. D. Buck of this place had charge of the funeral services.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Aid Society met Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Clara Lahman. It was decided to have a sample tea in the early part of February. Mrs. Durkes was assistant hostess for the affair. During the social hour dainty refreshments were served.

A surprise was successfully carried out Friday night at the home of John Voet. He was quietly reading his evening paper when the following walked in for the evening: Mr. and Mrs. George Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beisecker, Mrs. Ruth Beisecker, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Degner of this place; Mrs. Ray Frohs and two children of Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shoemaker were Sunday evening supper guests at the home of his sister, Mrs. Stella Wilson and family. Roy celebrated his birthday anniversary Sunday. We join with a large circle of friends and relatives in wishing him many more birthdays, and we hope his ball team wins every contest next summer.

Over a score of Franklin Grove's unemployed men will be provided 11,680 hours of work under the PWA project. This has been made possible under the Illinois Work Relief program. The project provides for the expenditure of $63,542.20. The approval of the project was received by County Work Relief Supt. J. E. Reagan and provides for the following improvements: relaying of drainage system, grading of village streets, resurfacing of village streets, construction of cement walks and crossing, opening backslaps of the drainage ditches and other general street and village improvements.

The application for the additional amount which is to be used largely in the improvement of the streets was filed by Mayor George L. Spangler early last month and is in addition to other work relief projects which are almost complete. The latest project provides work for 22 men for 11,680 working hours.

The Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will meet Thursday, Jan. 10. Hostesses will be Mrs. Mary Burhenn and Mrs. M. Gilroy.

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Moore and daughter Miss Annis were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Rorick in Dixon.

Miss Clara Durkes returned to her school duties at Gladbrook, Ia. Sunday after having spent the holidays here with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes.

A picnic supper was enjoyed on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Oscar Pick. The evening was spent in playing bridge. Those present were Mrs. Harry Kint, Mrs. Clifford Photo, Mrs. Cecil Cravens, Mrs. Abram Gilbert, Mrs. LeRoy Miller, Misses Esther Ling and Gauda Graves. A delightful time is reported.

Rev. and Mrs. O. D. Buck entertained with dinner Sunday Rev. and Mrs. Paul Studebaker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Group and family.

Mr. and Mrs. April and Mrs. Margie Lookingland of Beloit, Wis. were here Monday to attend the funeral of Adam Schafer.

The Junior Class of the local high school will present its annual play February the 8th. "Big Brother" is the play which has been chosen. The cast of characters will begin rehearsal this week. Following is the cast:

Obituary. Nancy C. Beck was born January 3, 1858 at Franklin Grove, and departed this life January 2, 1935 at her home in Rochelle. Her young womanhood was spent on a farm east of Franklin Grove.

She was united in marriage to Miles Beck, December 20, 1877. They began life together at Warrier's Mark, Pa., where they lived thirty-one years. Six children came to bless their home, Roy and Mrs. Edyth Harris of Altoona, Pa., Mrs. Vinna Underwood of Sycamore, Ill. Clair and Zulah of Grand Detour, and Horace of DeKalb, all of the children were at her bedside when the end came.

She came with her family to Rochelle in 1908 where the family home has since been maintained. It was in this home that their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated, Dec. 20, 1927. This worthy couple have traveled life's pathway together for fifty-seven years.

Surviving to mourn her loss are the husband, six children, seven grandchildren and three sisters: Mrs. John Meyers of Oregon, Mrs. Jacob Buck of Aurora, Mrs. Ada Underwood of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. George Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Blocher, Rev. and Mrs. Buck of Franklin Grove. Nieces and nephews present were Miss Merle Fissell of Freeport, Claude Foubare and wife, Randal Meyers of Chicago, Mrs. Mildred Meyers Hall of Wheaton, Mrs. Lucille Bennett and

In these instances two potential affirmative votes to one negative vote is required. In the house, at the conclusion of a roll call, the clerk merely announces the pairs. In the senate, however, when a senator's name is called, if he is paired, he rises, addresses the chair and explains how he would have voted on the question were he not paired. Pairing Of Votes. Members of congress who for one reason or another find they must be absent from sessions, avail themselves of the age-old parliamentary custom of "pairing." It simply means that one member pairs his name with another who holds opposite views on a piece of legislation and intends so to vote. The effect is to nullify the votes of both.

In the house of representatives a special clerk attends to the duties of arranging pairs for the members. If a representative is unable to attend a session where an important vote is to be taken, he communicates with this clerk and a pair is arranged.

In the senate two employes attend to the job. The secretary of the majority at present arranges pairs for the democrats; the secretary of

HOCKEY TEAM MAY BE SOLD BY DANDURAND

Rumors Overshadow Toronto Loss Today

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The promise that Leon Dandurand would have some definite word concerning the sale of the Montreal Canadiens today overshadowed the wallowing handed out by Boston to the mighty Toronto Maple Leafs and the upset of Chicago's Blackhawks by the Detroit Red Wings.

Dandurand, who has been dickering with two prospective purchasers of the oldest national hockey league franchise, was due to make an announcement today but whether it would be that he and Joe Cattarino had decided to hang on or to sell to a New York group or to a Montreal syndicate headed by J. U. Vratton was uncertain. Meanwhile the Canadiens, idle until Saturday, remained deadlocked for the international division cellar with the St. Louis Eagles, who are having troubles of their own.

Persistent reports had it that a special meeting of the league's board of governors would be held today to consider the possibility of extending aid of some kind to the Eagles, who haven't been attracting major league crowds despite their recent spurt.

Upset Startled
The double upset last night provided food for thought for those fans who are interested in watching a close race for the various play-off positions. Toronto, the league's high scoring team, never was in the game against Boston and went down 3 to 1 as the Bruins started scoring in the second minute of play.

The result tied the American division standing up in a tight knot with Chicago's Blackhawks only a point ahead of the Bruins after taking a 2-1 setback from Detroit. The Red Wings trailed Boston by just two points. The New York Rangers who struggled into a slow 1-1 deadlock with the Montreal Maroons in a game played on soft ice, dropped seven points behind Detroit.

It was Chicago's first defeat this season at the hands of an American division club.

Illinois College Ace Tallies 49 In 4 Games

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Running up 15 points from a forward's position in the game against McKendree, captain Jim Winn, Illinois college star, took the Little 19 individual basketball scoring lead last week with a total of 49 points in four games.

His teammate, Louis Laster, leader a week ago, got seven points in the same game to fall from first to second place with 43 points.

He was Joe Louis, the new colored menace who has compiled a sensational string of knockouts. Here the two are shown in the dressing room as Max prepared for an exhibition. There is little likelihood that the two ever will meet in the ring for Baer has announced that he promised his mother he never would cross the color line during his fight career.

Ashton Smears Knacks' Unbeaten Record 24-21

Beiers Drub Hospital Knacks' Defeat Gives Idle I. N. U. First Place Tie

By CHARLES H. ROSS

Ashton turned the trick last night.

The fighting Black quint from Dixon's sister village fought an uphill battle through a strenuous second and third quarter, then unleashed irresistible power in the final period. The result was the first defeat of the Commercial league campaign for the Knacks Leaders, and gave the idle I. N. U. a tie for first place.

In the opening game of the evening, the Beiers Bakerymen conquered the Dixon State Hospital Yellow jackets by an overwhelming 34 to 14 score.

The Knacks snatched the first basket of the evening and their only field goal of the first quarter when Keht dropped in one, only to have the count knotted a moment later by G. Vaupel, Black forward. The winners outscored the Blue and Gold locals in the first period 5 to 2, but were thrown on the defensive thereafter until their final stanza bombardment of the hoop that netted them victory.

Play Is Furious

In the second quarter the play was furious with the Ashtons holding a slim 12 to 10 lead at half time although they were outscored 8 to 7 in the frame. Haneman's sensational flip shot from way over in the northwest corner of the court added zest to this stage of the game. He was merely throwing the ball over his head to a team mate in an effort to prevent it from flying out of bounds. Instead, the sphere swished through the net. Those points later proved valuable.

Both teams were deadlocked in a 15-15 tie as the fourth period commenced. At this point, lanky Ulrich trained his heavy artillery on the basket. Supported by a team which virtually ran amuck, he dropped in three field goals to polish off an evening total of ten points. His nearest competitor was Kays of the Knacks who garnered nine on four goals and charity shot. Although the Knacks spurred ahead to a 21-17 lead, this proved to be their last rally. The Ashtons could not be stopped. They knotted the score at 21 all in the final two minutes and then crashed through to victory.

snated another pair of goals and a free throw, and Planagan, substituting for Bellows took four points of his own. The winners held a substantial 18-7 lead at half time.

The Hospital team appeared wilted in the third stanza from the furious pace set by the Loafers. The Breadmakers' close man to man defense limited the Colony to a single goal by Windmiller in that quarter, and the fourth period found the game on ice for the Beiers. Playing without the services of Fitzpatrick who had injured his arm last week against Franklin Grove, the Colony team was further handicapped by the absence of Doty, regular guard. In spite of their loss however Windmiller, ace tallymaker of the Hospital quint registered his usual honor as high point man. He sank nine points. His number was shared by Henry of the Beiers, also with nine.

BEIERS WIN 34 TO 14

Victory number two was earned by the Beiers Loafers in the curtain-raiser game with the Dixon State Hospital five.

Except for a short period in the first quarter, the Orange and Black outfit had complete mastery of the situation. Getting off to a fast start, both teams scored quickly. The Beiers men on a field goal by Hilliker, and the Yellow on a goal by Mansfield, assisted by Windmiller's first two charity tosses of the evening both of which were successful. Potts gave the Orange men another basket, and Henry sank a goal and a free throw. The first period count was 7 to 4 in favor of the Bakery team, who were just hitting their stride.

Colony Held to Lone Goal

The hapless Staters were limited to three gift shots in the second frame as the determined Beiers outcounted them 11 to 3. Henry's basket eyes were focussed with deadly accuracy on the ring. He was just hitting their stride.

The Knacks snatched the first basket of the evening and their only field goal of the first quarter when Keht dropped in one, only to have the count knotted a moment later by G. Vaupel, Black forward. The winners outscored the Blue and Gold locals in the first period 5 to 2, but were thrown on the defensive thereafter until their final stanza bombardment of the hoop that netted them victory.

Both teams were deadlocked in a 15-15 tie as the fourth period commenced. At this point, lanky Ulrich trained his heavy artillery on the basket. Supported by a team which virtually ran amuck, he dropped in three field goals to polish off an evening total of ten points. His nearest competitor was Kays of the Knacks who garnered nine on four goals and charity shot. Although the Knacks spurred ahead to a 21-17 lead, this proved to be their last rally. The Ashtons could not be stopped. They knotted the score at 21 all in the final two minutes and then crashed through to victory.

TENSE DRAMA IN HAUPTMANN TRIAL

"Jafsie" Faces Ordeal Lindbergh, Hauptmann In Crowded Courtroom "The Crib Was Empty"

John F. Condon, the Bronx teacher who as "Jafsie" tried to contact the Lindbergh kidnapers and passed $50,000 of ransom money to a mysterious man now alleged by the state to have been Bruno Hauptmann, will offer vital testimony when he takes the stand. This, Condon's most recent photo, shows something of the strain to which he has been subjected during the past two years.

ATMOSPHERE OF CHANGE FELT IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Old Age Pensions, New NRA Set-Up, Among Probabilities

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—An atmosphere of change surrounded Washington today as the New Deal found itself in its long-heralded period of transition.

First off, there came a new tip about the vastly-altered attack on relief. An authoritative source said the administration was thinking of urging that a Federal-state system of pension for old people and needy mothers be set up almost immediately so payments could start quickly.

This was described as an attempt to take care of many of the 1,500,000 "unemployables" the government is seeking to remove from its relief rolls to the care of the states. Hitherto, many observers have regarded such pensions as a plan for the more distant future.

Want Huge Appropriation
Large, joint contributions by the Federal government and the states would be necessary if pensions were to start quickly under this plan. No figure is mentioned, though Senator Robinson (D. Ark.) majority leader, has estimated $100,000,000 would be necessary to operate the Federal end of the social security program—including unemployment insurance—for the first year.

NRA came to the parting of the ways between old and new. Two hundred business men and code of ficials gathered for hearings on the blue eagle's major problems, with price-fixing definitely under fire.

With NRA warning that price-fixing, except in extreme emergencies, would not be countenanced, some foresaw a possibility of drastic revision of price controls in 300 codes. But there was known to be strong opposition in the gathering to some changes under discussion.

May Lower Tariff
The farm administration, too, was looking into the future in an attempt to prepare for it. Because he regards the system of collecting processing taxes to pay farmers to control production as only an "emergency" measure, Secretary Wallace and his assistants were studying possible alternatives. The half dozen he has listed from time to time range from compulsory control of major crops, such as is now exercised over cotton, to a vast plan to purchase farm land and take it out of production for good.

But the plan Wallace says he really would like to see tried out in the future as a lowering of tariff walls so America would buy more goods. This, he contends, would revive foreign markets for American farm products.

Undrunk by a three-hour cross-examination, though she left the witness stand weak and nervous, Miss Betty Gow, Scotch nurse of little Charles Lindbergh, Jr., is shown above as she appeared in the courtroom for the ordeal for which she made a special trip back from Scotland. She told a heart-breaking story of the fear and despair that swept through the Lindbergh household when she discovered that the baby was missing.

Christian religion, Rev. J. V. Bischoff; story telling, Mrs. F. W. Hammer; a study of the pupil, Rev. L. R. Minion. J. P. McInay has been elected registrar and chairman of the finance committee and Rev. A. L. Warner has charge of the publicity. Next Sunday, enrollment in the school will start in the various Sunday schools of Polo and vicinity. More than 100 students attended the training school last year and it is expected that a larger attendance will be attracted this year.

A conference on church music will be held in the Methodist church Jan. 30, under the auspices of the Methodist church and the county Sunday school association of Ogle county. The conference will be held in the afternoon and evening with many special musical numbers. The conductor of the conference is Rev. Leroy Wright, minister of music of the Court street church in Rockford. During the conference lectures will be given, questions asked and answered, a short organ recital will be enjoyed, and demonstrations and criticisms of musical productions. Special attention will be given to Sunday school music. All church organists, pianists, choir directors and choir members in Ogle county will be invited.

DAILY HEALTH

Flat-Foot: II

The shortening of the tendon Achilles, the heel tendon, usually due to a contraction or shortening of the calf muscles of the leg, is a fairly common cause of flat-foot. The typical instance of this defect is most commonly to be seen in women wearing high heels.

The position of their feet when they wear high heels may be fairly normal, but when they put on lowered shoes for tennis or other sport exercises, their feet are forced to turn outwardly, thus assuming the position of the "flat-foot."

When the tendon Achilles is shortened the individual finds it almost impossible to "draw up" the forepart of the foot. The normal foot can be drawn up to form an angle with the leg of about 75 to 80 degrees. This range represents the normal movement incidental to proper walking. Any restriction means interference with the normal gait.

One may be born with a short tendon Achilles. In such conditions, when it is discovered early enough, a surgical operation to lengthen the tendon may prove desirable and feasible.

In most instances of shortened tendon Achilles associated with flat-foot, the condition is acquired, and may be remedied in a measure by the wearing of proper shoes, by exercise and by correction of posture.

The flat, inverted foot with the shortened tendon Achilles is prone to be stiff and unyielding, and consequently will profit by exercise and manipulation. The exercise which will do the patient most good must, however, be determined by the doctor in each instance after a careful study of the patient and his foot. But the following type of exercise may prove of value:

The patient is seated on a chair, the heels resting on the ground. Each foot should then be moved in all directions, the point of rotation being around the ankle. In the same position attempts should be made to grasp small objects (corks) with the toes.

Tomorrow—Bunions.

TELEGRAPH BOYS FALL FOR STAR OF BRIGHT EYES

Carriers Attend Movie at Dixon Theatre Last Evening

Thirty carrier boys of The Telegraph were the guests of the circulation department at the talking picture "Bright Eyes" featuring Shirley Temple, five-year-old star last night.

The production's name was most appropriate as many "bright eyes" watched every portion of the movie. Manager L. O. Rorer believed a stampede of gate crashers was in progress, but he was soon enlightened to the fact that Coxey's army was not descending on his fortress when the ticket sales began shooting up.

Needless to say Shirley added thirty new suitors to her list of admirers. Circulation solicitor Don Tarzan Lerdall was wondering today if Shirley's fan mail would increase by thirty letters next week, or if any of his carriers plan an extended vacation to California next summer "to view the scenery."

THE FIRST BANKS

The bank was at first the bank or tablelike bench on which money changers, as many "bright eyes" watched in Venice, Florence, and other Italian cities displayed small piles of coin ready for business. There were sometimes riots about these places, and the benches were broken, hence bankrupt, broken bench.

LOUIS DECLARES HE'LL BE READY SOON FOR BAER

Wants A Few More Fights Just For Experience

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Young Joe Louis, the Detroit Negro who keeps on winning one fight after another, says he'll be ready for champion Max Baer "about March."

The sensational 20-year-old heavyweight is in Pittsburgh for a 10-round tomorrow night against Hans Birkie, the German, and says he believes that one will be "pretty easy."

Although a little backward about discussing his skyrocketing from comparatively obscurity by winning 12 consecutive major battles, Louis did say his ambition is to go after the title holder.

"I'll be ready for Baer about March," said Louis. "I want to get in a few more fights and then I'll take on whoever is the champion."

"Yes, Baer is a pretty hard puncher. I've seen him in a couple of exhibitions and he showed me that he knows how to handle his fists, but I think that after a few more fights I'll be ready for him or any other contender the matchmakers care to put me against."

In the supporting cast for Louis-Birkie go will include Buddy MacArthur of Fairmont, W. Va., and Frankie Sims of Cleveland, both heavyweights, in an eight-round semi-final.

Louis Matched For Bout With Ramage In Calif.

Los Angeles, Jan. 9.—(AP)—After weeks of inactivity, interest in boxing boomed today with the announcement that Joe Louis, Detroit heavyweight, had been signed for an outdoor rematch with Lee Ramage here.

Hayden (Wad) Wadhams, matchmaker for the Avalon Athletic Association, announced transportation money had been telegraphed to meet Ramage at Wrigley Field Feb. 21, two days before the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap.

The young Negro fighter scored a technical knockout over Ramage in Chicago several weeks ago.

DICTATOR LONG MEETS TROUBLE ON EVERY SIDE

Huey is Defied by Baton Rouge Police Board and U. S. Judge

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Huey Long's tumultuous Louisiana "Empire" rumbled menacingly today as the fiery senator stormed in Washington.

Revolt against the Kingfish spread as 32 laws passed at the December special session of the legislature became effective. The new acts gave him more power, added patronage and new weapons with which to fight his opponents.

Blunt notices was served by the East Baton Rouge parish police jury that it would not permit Long under one of the new laws, to take control of the parish, in which the capital is located, to make of it a "little district of Columbia."

Long was having trouble in New Orleans also. Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah there ruled that his court had jurisdiction in action filed over the state law giving Long control of the sewerage and water board.

He granted a temporary restraining order prohibiting Long's board members from acting on petition of three non-resident taxpayers. An identical case is now pending in state courts testing the validity of the law. The litigation is holding up a $2,000,000 PWA loan to the board.

YEARLINGS SOLD HIGH

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Two carloads of Angus Yearling cattle were sold at the stockyards here today for $11.40 a hundredweight, the highest price paid on the local exchange, livestock men said, since January 1931, when the top was $12. The cattle, 52 head, were purchased by Armour & Company for eastern shipment.

LAWS CURBING LOAN FIRMS ARE FRAMED

Bill Provides For the Barring of Advertising

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Legislation designed to curb the activity of small loan companies was introduced in the house Tuesday by Representative Sauthoff (Progressive-Visconsin).

Sauthoff's bill would bar the mails to advertising of loan companies charging interest of more than 15 per cent a year.

Advertising in magazines with circulation in more than one state also would be prohibited, and the loan companies would not be permitted to advertise by radio through stations with out of state range.

Sauthoff said his measure was in line with attempts of the Progressive party to curb the legal rate of interest on small loans in Wisconsin. Penalties ranging from fines of $50 to $2000 and imprisonment for not more than a year are provided in the bill.

SCOTTSBORO CASE REVIEW IS WITHHELD

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Attorney General Thomas Knight, Sr., said his office had not been officially notified of the United States supreme court decision to review the Scottsboro case and he planned no immediate action.

The attorney general said there were several avenues of action open to the state, but his present plans went no further than preparing a brief and presenting arguments when asked for by the United States court.

The supreme court decided to review the convictions of Haywood Patterson and Clarence Norris, sentenced to die February 2 for criminal assault on two white women aboard a freight train in Jackson county, in 1931.

Beauty's Nudity Stirs Film War

Whether the startling nudity of Healy Kessler, above, will flash on U. The rich Austrian husband is seeking tranquility to suppress the picture, denounced by Pope Pius XI.

HORNER URGES PROCEDURE FOR GEN. ASSEMBLY

Message Sent to Legislature was Voluminous Document

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Governor Horner today told the new legislature that final action on Illinois relief financing should be delayed until President Roosevelt's program takes definite form and declared additional state aid should not be given the public schools until the "archaic" educational system is modernized.

To meet immediate demands for relief funds, he asked for prompt appropriation of $9,000,000 from the treasury surplus.

Reorganization of the system of school administration should precede any attempt to triple the state appropriation the governor declared.

Major attention was given the relief and school problems in the governor's message to the opening of the 54th General Assembly.

Pensions Endorsed
Old age pensions and unemployment insurance were endorsed, but Horner again proposed that nothing be done until the President announces a definite program.

The lengthy message also advocated congressional, legislative and judicial reappointment, licensing of automobile drivers, regulation of trucks and buses, labor legislation and governmental consolidation. It told of economies totaling $20,000,000 in the state government and of cooperation with New Deal programs.

Mr. Horner urged the legislature to stay in session over the week end so that the $9,000,000 can be appropriated before January 15, the last date for which federal funds have been made available until the state assumes part of the cost of relief.

Await President
As for the rest of the $36,000,000 which Illinois has been asked to raise this year, the governor counseled delay, pointing out that until Congress acts on the program which Roosevelt has promised to submit it might be unwise for the state to take definite action.

The $9,000,000 surplus, Horner said, would take care of the state's relief obligation for three months and meantime a plan can be worked out in harmony with the president's program to put most of the persons on relief rolls on work projects and give the state and local communities responsibility for the "unemployables."

For the schools, the governor urged that the legislature extend from March 1 to July 1 the temporary law under which a third of the gas tax revenues are being diverted to the common school districts.

Meanwhile, he suggested an investigation and declared that it would be wasteful to increase either state or local appropriations until a comprehensive plan of educational reform is developed.

Illinois now has the most archaic form of school administration found in the union," Horner said.

Discussing other issues in his voluminous message, the governor declared himself in favor of the principles of unemployment insurance and old age pensions but again recommended that nothing be done until Roosevelt submits his plan to Congress.

Told of Economies
In detail, he told of economies in the state government totaling $20,000,000 during the first two years of the Horner administration.

The governor advocated an automobile driver's license law and proposed that motor trucks and buses be regulated in a manner that will give the state more revenue.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury at "Trial of Century"

Twelve men and women bearing names rooted in the American tradition have pledged open-minded consideration of the evidence in the trial of the German carpenter, Bruno Hauptmann, on charges of murdering Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. Here they are, seated in the jury box in the court room at Flemington, N. J. Back row, left to right, are Robert Cravath, Elmer Smith, Philip Hockenbury, Mrs. Mary Brelford, Liscom C. Case and Howard Biggs; front row, George Voorhees, Mrs. Ethel Stockton, Charles F. Snyder, Verna Snyder, Mrs. Rose Pill and Foreman Charles Walton, Sr.

governor renew his request for reapportionment of the state's congressional and supreme court districts. He asked for a constitutional amendment to permit legislative reapportionment so that Cook county, now in a minority in the assembly, would have control of the House of Representatives.

Legislation for governmental consolidation was suggested and the governor told of consolidations of some state departments and of the Chicago park system.

Declaring that a commission should investigate the financial condition of the school system, Horner said:

"Strong arguments can be advanced for the continued increase in expenditures for education both by the state and its local governments."

For Educational Reform
"I have no reason to doubt the wisdom of letting any community tax itself whatever it pleases for the support of local schools, but there are grave doubts as to whether increased state grants are desirable until a comprehensive plan of educational reform is developed."

"If state assistance is increased in the absence of other needed reform, the only result will be to perpetuate an outmoded form of school government without commensurate advantages either to taxpayers or those to be educated."

"Illinois has now the most archaic form of school administration found in the union. It has over 12,000 school districts run by approximately 49,000 officials."

"It has approximately ten per cent of the school districts found in the United States and has more districts than are found in a total of twenty-two states. Its school districts were developed without regard to the future growth and facilities of the state or to the future needs of pupils for education or the ability of local districts to find funds for school support."

"Education has no stronger advocate than myself. I stand ready to push its cause to the utmost, but I do feel that all of those interested in education—the professional educators, taxpayers and parents and otherwise interested citizens alike—should unite in developing a constructive program for the state whereby the antiquated administrative machinery can be improved, the educational opportunities of our children improved, and the fiscal system more thoroughly apportioned and more stably reconstructed. I suggest therefore that the general assembly, through a special joint committee, set to work on this problem to the end that recommendations for the improvement of this situation can be made in time for enactment at this session."

Answer to Teachers
This was in answer to the demand of the Illinois state teachers' association that the school distributive fund be increased from $10,500,000 to $30,000,000 annually and that approximately $15,000,000 be appropriated to meet arrearages from past years.

On the relief issue, the governor stated the local communities would be asked to bear their share of the expense of caring for the "unemployable" quoting the president's message to Congress and proposing legislation to "enable the local communities of the state to resume their local responsibility."

If $9,000,000 of the treasury surplus, the result of the two per cent sales tax, is to be appropriated for relief before January 15, the two houses must stay in session the rest of the week, with a two-thirds majority present.

It has been understood for several weeks that the surplus funds would be used as the first installment on the $3,000,000 monthly relief fund. The federal administrator, however, demanded that Illinois contribute this year when he promised to pay the entire cost of caring for the unemployed during November and December.

The governor gave considerable attention to Mr. Roosevelt's intention of putting to work those persons on relief rolls who are classed as "employable."

Ten Yards of Earth Just a Bite

Ten cubic yards of earth is just a good gulp for this walking bridge dredge operating along the route of the $33,000,000 All-American canal, from the Colorado river to California's Imperial Valley. Towering far into the air, it is an outstanding attraction in Arizona, where it is shown at work north of Yuma, following recent dedication of the project.

Warkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Warkins of this place and Walter Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Becker of Sublette, was solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception in this place Wednesday morning, Jan. 2, at 9 o'clock. After the double ring ceremony which was performed by Rev. T. P. Kelly, two solos were sung by Dale Doran, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Wm. Doran, at the piano. The bride wore a lovely gown of royal blue silk crepe with silver trimmings and carried a bouquet of roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Mary Becker, sister of the groom, wore a gown of rose colored georgette with trimmings of gold. The groom was attended by Clement Warkins, brother of the bride.

The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the newlyweds left for a honeymoon trip through Wisconsin. On their return they will reside on a farm near Sublette.

HERE IT IS—THE CAR THAT MADE 175 EXPERTS Guess Wrong!

So Much Luxury, Style and Value in the New 1935 DODGE, Experts Overguessed its Price... Couldn't Believe It Would Sell for So Little.

175 experts—authorities in style, value, engineering—guessed too high when asked to estimate the price of the New-Value Dodge for 1935.

But no wonder they guessed wrong! Never before has any car so low-priced been so smartly designed, so sturdily built, so luxurious... with 95 basic advancements for new comfort, new economy, new high speed with safety.

And "Synchronous Control," which makes driving unbelievably easy and effortless... the new "Airslide Ride," which gives Dodge a steadiness, smoothness and roadability never before ever approached by other cars.

The New-Value Dodge is powered with the Dodge "Red Ram" engine. It's silky smooth, with traditional Dodge dependability. Develops 85 miles an hour and up! Built to last, to save money, no matter how fast you drive. A saving of 15¢ to 20¢ on every dollar you spend for gas is now possible—with even more astonishing oil economy!

Compare delivered prices of this 1935 Dodge against other cars! You'll be surprised to learn how low they are. Only the genius of a manufacturing organization like Dodge—with 20 years' experience building fine motor cars—could create such outstanding dollar-for-dollar value.

DELIVERED NOW FOR JUST A FEW DOLLARS MORE THAN THE LOWEST-PRICED CARS

"I KNOW GOOD LOOKS when I see them," says Russell Patterson, famous artist and illustrator, "so it's no wonder that I guessed the price of the new 1935 Dodge too high."

"I GUESSED this new 1935 Dodge to be priced much higher than it actually is," says Homer H. Bailey, former buyer for a mail order house. "Even though I'm wrong, I still think the car is worth it."

"THIS NEW 1935 DODGE looks like a $1,000 model," says Karl F. Lueder, value expert. "Was the expert to find it costs so much less? No wonder I guessed wrong when it came to guessing the price."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HOLLISTER breaks her engagement to TONY MICKLE the same day before EVELYN KENDALL tells VALERIA BENNETT his fiancée, that everything is over between them. Ann thinks she still loves Tony and Peter believes he still loves Valeria, but when chance brings the two together and Peter asks Ann to marry him she agrees.

They go to Florida and are honeymooning there. Then Peter is recalled home. His family snubs Ann and Valeria tries to make trouble between Ann and Peter. She succeeds finally and Ann goes away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts.

Peter, desperately in love with her by this time, grows lonelier as the weeks pass. He writes to Ann and she answers.

She has found work as a secretary in the home of Mrs. TERRY. Mrs. Terry's brother is attracted to Ann.

Ann learns the house Allan is decorating belongs to Peter. Convinced that Peter plans to divorce her and marry Valeria soon, Ann leaves the Terry home. She becomes a clerk in a second-hand book store, shadowing an apartment with STEPHEN DAVIS.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

DURING the long, lonely weeks Ann was tempted more than once to call Sarah. She had wanted to call into the church to see Sarah and Mac married, but had been afraid to risk it. No she must not see Sarah. Not until after Peter's marriage. Then perhaps she could go back and pick up the threads of the old life again and weave for herself a pattern of security and peace.

If she communicated with Sarah there would be only one result. Sarah would see Peter and he would come forward with a concrete offer to secure Ann's future.

Anything, anything would be preferable to that!

"A young man came in to buy a book from you," Professor Barber told Ann one day when she returned from lunch. He was smiling broadly.

"A young man?" Ann questioned, trying not to let excitement show in her voice. Her heart began to beat furiously. "Was he tall?"

"Yes. A tall young man," Professor Barber's faded blue eyes under bushy brows, beamed at her. "So anxious he was to see."

"Peter—but it might not be Peter?"

"Was his hair light or dark?"

Ann was very busy all at once putting her books back in their places.

"How should I know? With the shop so dark and my eyes not so good as they once were. But a very handsome young man, I could see."

Mrs. Barber had come in the room. "I think his hair was very dark. Father. He wanted to find Gibbons' 'Rise and Fall.' But when father could not lay his hands on it he bought 'Sartor Resartus' and seemed just as satisfied. Father gave him your address at home."

No. It could not be Peter this young man who wanted the 'Rise and Fall.' It sounded more like Tony. If Tony had located her he must be pledged to secrecy. He must be made to see how much it would hurt her if he revealed her hiding place.

Ann half-expected Tony to call as he prepared supper. She wanted to see him because she was lonely and the dull evenings shut within the cheap little apartment were getting on her nerves. But she dreaded seeing him, too. Tony was always difficult and it might be hard to convince him that there was only friendship for him now in her heart. She could not tell him she loved Peter. How scornful he would be if he knew she had given her heart to a man who cared nothing for her.

Sheila would come in presently. Sheila would eat and go out with Jimmy Matthews, the friendly young man who looked like a prize fighter but did nothing more exciting than work in the shipping department of a wholesale store.

Ann suspected Sheila and Jimmy were much in love, though Sheila ridiculed the idea. "Marry Jimmy?" she had said. "Gracious, you don't think I intend to be poor all my days, do you? Don't you think I have lived in this town long enough to have acquired some sense? I wouldn't look at Jimmy. There's a floorwalker at the store who has it all over him. Got a houseful of kids. He could do his hair smooth and shiny, not sticky and hard to keep down like Jimmy's. What do you think I am anyway, marrying an Irishman who drives a second-hand car?"

After this outburst Ann stood enveloped. But she was not convinced.

Sheila brought the newspaper home every night. Jimmy had first and then met her on the corner after work and gave it to her.

Sheila was climbing the key in the door now. She came in, dropped her coat on a chair, kicked off her slippers and threw herself down on the couch in the tiny living room. The couch opened up at night to become a not too comfortable bed.

"Gosh, I'm dead. My feet hurt so I can't stand up. I hope I never see another Founder's Day sale."

"Many people!"

"Millions! A lot came in just as I was getting ready to leave and ploughed through the table tapes. I had to stretch them out again. And then, with my feet killing me, some fresh guy on the corner came over them when he couldn't get my attention any other way. What a world! I'll be out to help you in a minute, Ann."

"I don't need you. Everything is about ready. We have steak and some hot soup—I stopped by a restaurant and brought it home in a carton. I baked some apples, too."

"Sounds swell. Sure you don't need help?"

"Positive. Supper's ready to be dished up."

"You're a swell kid, Ann. I can't understand how you've slipped by the marriage bureau so long. Did you have a bust with your boy friend?"

"Something like that," Ann said, in a muffled voice.

Sheila thought it was too bad about Ann who had contrived with all her good looks, to get no farther than that old bookstore and this makeshift apartment. If Sheila had to work all day like Ann, ride the street cars and never go anywhere she would probably jump in the river.

She voiced her thoughts, "I'd jump off a bridge if I thought I was going to spend the rest of my life working at Staub & Stein's. But I'm not."

"Of course you won't," Ann said. "Some day you'll marry."

"Yes, that's what I meant."

There was something in Sheila's voice, a happy note that had not been there before.

"Sheila! Don't tell me you're getting married?"

"Yes."

"The nice floorwalker?"

"Well, I should say not. What ever made you think I'd marry that old crab? I wouldn't have him on a bet."

Ann smiled. "It must be Jimmy."

"Well, of course."

Sheila waited for this to sink in, and then continued. "Oh Ann, we're going to have the cutest flat with a real bedroom and a kitchen—not a kitchenette. And Jimmy's friend did a grand paint job on the car. And Jimmy's had a raise. I'm so happy I don't really mind anything. Not even Founder's Day."

"I'm glad for you," Ann said. "Jimmy's a nice boy. When are you planning to marry?"

"About Christmas. Christmas would be a fine time, don't you think? We sort of thought of marrying on Christmas Day. Have you ever heard of anybody marrying on Christmas Day?"

The question caught Ann unprepared. After a moment she said, "Sheila, I know." She was remembering last Christmas, coming out of the parsonage with Peter.

She turned and went back into the kitchenette, mechanically putting china on the table.

CHIEF's animated conversation flowed in to her. "Think of having a living room, a bedroom and a kitchen. There's a tiled bath, too. Ann. And Jimmy's mother has broken up housekeeping and come to live with her daughter's and she is going to give us enough to furnish one room. We'll buy everything else on installments. I've some things in the 'dayaway.' The 'dayaway's' just a working girl's heaven. If you ask me. All my things will be paid for by Christmas."

"Are some blue-checked aprons laid away?"

"How did you know?"

"I guess every girl wants blue-checked aprons to wear in her kitchen. There was a wistful note in Ann's voice."

Ann couldn't resist them. They were on sale, marked to 49 cents. Ann. I'm so happy! Jimmy's not so much to look at but I like everything about him, even his hands and freckles. Ain't love grand?"

She was ruffling the pages of the newspaper.

After dinner Ann would take the newspaper and turn to the legal statistics. They held a strange fascination for her. She would read them fearfully, half expecting to see an announcement that Peter had filed suit for divorce on ground of desertion. It was like a reprieve—each time she failed to find it.

Now that Peter and Valeria were furnishing a home there could be no doubt that the time was near when he would be seeking a divorce. Perhaps the dark-haired young man had been a lawyer who had come to suggest a settlement and see how she felt about Peter getting his divorce.

Sheila was saying, "I wouldn't exchange my Jimmy for anybody—not even for this Peter Kendall with all his money!"

"What did you say?" Ann, her face very white, stood in the doorway.

"I was saying I wouldn't swap Jimmy for this millionaire fellow. For crying out loud—look what he's doing now!"

CHAPTER XIII

ANN picked up the newspaper as she sat in a dream. Feeling to take it, dressing what she would see there. Headlines, no doubt, about Peter divorcing a girl named Ann Hollister who had deserted him last spring.

"Gosh! These rich," Sheila said, re-reading the newspaper. "Think of anybody having money enough to build a town!"

Ann was staring down at the folded pages. Peter's face. His dear, dear face. His eyes, looking sober in this picture. Not too happy looking. Peter was building a town, not divorcing her. Only building a town!

"For goodness' sake, come on! Dinner's getting cold," Sheila complained.

"Go ahead. Don't wait for me." There was a full column and Ann read every word, reluctantly laying the newspaper aside at last.

"How queer you look. Excited or something," Sheila said. "I'm afraid I don't get much kick from the doings of the rich. After all, they don't affect people like us."

"No," Ann said. "Anyway if he does spend millions for people who work in his factories, I've heard he didn't treat his wife right. They said at the store she had to run away from him. He must have been pretty mean for her to leave him, with all that money."

"No," Ann said quickly, rushing to Peter's defense. "He wasn't mean. He was an angel to her."

"How do you know?" Sheila's eyes met Ann's in amazement.

"I knew someone—a girl who knew him."

"She probably checked his hat or something and, because he gave her a dollar, is ready to swear he's a great guy," Sheila said carelessly.

"I'm off to bed," she said after supper. "Put the dishes to soak. I can't help do them after a sale. I told Jimmy I was too tired to see him, so you know how I feel."

"I'm not tired. It was awfully quiet at the shop," Ann said. "Run along. I'll have them done in a minute."

When the dishes were on the shelves, Ann again picked up the newspaper.

She read it all over again. Peter's grandfather had been won over to Peter's plan. Kendallwood would be practically remade. New homes were to be built, a modern library, a moving picture house where the better films would be shown, a gymnasium for men and another for women, a recreation center with tennis courts, a basketball diamond, a swimming pool. A new school house. A clinic.

There were rolling down Ann's cheeks. It was a wonderful thing. Peter was doing. Bringing beauty, comfort and health to so many people. Ann could close her eyes and see the picture. The pretty, or early villas, enclosing on all sides homes replacing only one all the barren place becoming green and fertile. Children frolicking on the playground just as Sonny and Steve had played on their lawn. Harsh decrees of women thrilled and proud over their warm cozy places where fresh curtains hung at the windows. Tired men coming home not too tired under the new order of things to enjoy recreation or work in their gardens.

"Ann, before the clock when you come and set it for 7. What in the world are you crying about?"

"Because—because there are some good people in the world. Ann's voice was husky."

Sheila's mouth fell open. "The love of Mike?" She sat on a stool near the couch, crossed her slim legs and lifted her dark eyes wonderingly to Ann.

"Can you hear that? I don't call that Kendall fellow down Ann. He's probably just a big snake to get in the papers. Maybe an advertiser, just stung for all you know. Even if they do build the town it will probably be taken out of the way of anyone of the people who work there. Anyway, why should we care all hot and bothered about it? It doesn't put cream in your coffee and it doesn't keep my feet from being stoned on."

Ann laughed a little, shakily. "Well, that's an angle."

"Sure it's an angle. I will say, though this fellow is good looking enough to make a girl's heart go thump-thump. Good night and no more weeps!"

WHEN Sheila had gone Ann lay down on the couch. The light from a floor lamp fell upon Peter's picture. An old picture, of course. No one could persuade Peter to have a picture taken now.

"You made a dreadful mistake," Ann said to the picture. "Loving Valeria instead of me. She won't like your factory, people. She'll hate for you to be building nice clean houses for them, giving them baths and books. And after a while, she'll pull you away from them because she'll want you to be building tall, monumental buildings of stone and iron instead of little frame houses."

And then, because she couldn't bear thinking such thoughts, Ann said fiercely to herself, "Stop being melodramatic!"

She lifted Peter's picture and laid her lips on his. She had been married to Peter and yet had never kissed him. She wished she knew what it was like to be kissed by Peter. But she would never know now.

She went to the window and looked out. Only the harsh outlines of the buildings across the way and the dark gulf that was the street between met her eyes. At Valeria's apartment, perhaps, Peter was discussing his plans. Talking about the new homes the new movie house. Everything new, like the fresh start the workers would have.

Ann wondered if Valeria would understand all Peter was trying to do and if she would be willing to help him.

It was raining when Ann awoke in the morning. She had slept fitfully. Her eyes were shadowed when she came to breakfast.

Sheila had toast, eggs and coffee ready. "One good turn deserves another," she said cheerfully. "Gosh, was I glad not to see a stack of greasy dishes! Say Ann, you look as though you'd been drawn through a keyhole. Your eyes are red."

"I didn't sleep very well. Too much coffee, maybe."

"You had better take it easy today. I'm staying down town to have dinner with Jimmy. We're going to a show afterward and won't be home until late. Get a bite somewhere."

"I guess I will," Ann said slowly. "Maybe I'll stop in at a movie."

"Wear your galoshes. You can't afford to be sick when you're so new on your job."

IT RAINED all day. Just a drizzle during the morning, then a hard, driving rain in the afternoon, sweeping against the drab little shop in sudden, fierce gusts. Few customers came in and the long day dragged to a close.

Ann had not gone out for lunch. The Barbers had insisted that she should share their simple fare. But when six o'clock came Ann bundled into her coat, put on her galoshes and started homeward—the big umbrella Professor Barber had insisted on lending her, held close to her car.

A car came splashing along on the water-filled street and drew up by the curb.

"Ann!"

"Allan."

"For heaven's sake, get in here. What do you mean starting out in this rain?"

Ann climbed in. "What in the world are you doing on this street?"

"What would I be doing here but looking for you? They said in the store that you had just started off to catch a car."

"You probably saved me a wetting."

"Probably saved you pneumonia. Of all the dumb bunnies!"

"Anyway, I'm glad you came."

"You're going home with me for dinner. The kids want you to come."

"I really shouldn't. I haven't been very well today. Some other time."

"No time like the present. I'm taking you home. Lois is expecting you."

"Well, all right. I'd love to see them all."

They sped through the city and soon were on the highway. The speedometer was touching 45. Now it registered 60. Ann saw that Allan was driving too fast and not very carefully.

"Let's slow up a bit," she suggested.

"Let's not," he laughed. He had been drinking. She could smell the liquor, and even if she had not the way he was handling the car would have told the story.

ADMINISTRATION SEEKS NEW LAW TO CONTROL OIL

Congress To Be Asked to Enact Valid Legislation

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Administration forces sought swift action today to plug the gap in New Deal legislation created by the supreme court decision invalidating the oil section of NIRA.

Senator Connally (D. Texas) planned to introduce today a measure for specific control of interstate shipments of "hot" oil, which is petroleum produced in excess of quotas. His bill would be a substitute for the legislation held illegal.

Representative Disney (D. Okla.) said he was considering similar action. Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, planned an early conference with the house subcommittee investigating the industry. The planning and coordinating committee of the oil code authority went on record in support of Connally's measure.

Ickes announced he had ordered the federal tender board to cease supervising interstate oil shipments. Emphasizing that the oil code was not affected by the court decision, Ickes said it nevertheless was inadequate to control Texas production.

It was after an unsuccessful effort to control shipments from that state by the code that the NIRA section delegating to the president authority to prohibit shipments of "hot oil" was invoked.

U. S. UNABLE TO MEET OLYMPIC STANDARD NOW

Year and Half Still Remains to Bring Development

(Note: This is another of an exclusive series, written for the Associated Press by national sports leaders and dealing with the current athletic outlook.)

By HAROLD ANSON BRUCE
(Chairman, A. A. U. Committee on Long Distance Running)

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—In making up my All-America selections in distance running, among the college, club and school athletes, I am impressed by the fact that while the United States has made some strides toward improving the grade of talent we are still far short of what it will require to make any real impression in the next Olympic games at Berlin in 1936.

It is vital, from the standpoint of America's athletic prestige, that this be recognized now, while there remains a year and a half in which to encourage and develop the talent available. We have good material for nearly all the distance running events, except the marathon. The colleges have a few good prospects but in the main it will be up to the leading athletic clubs to train the men capable of competing with the strong Swedish and Finnish contingents in the 5000 and 10,000 meter runs, the marathon and steeplechase.

Perhaps the two outstanding long distance candidates, on the basis of their 1934 performances, are Paul F. Mundy, and Louis P. Gregory, both of whom represent the Millrose A. A. of New York in competition. Mundy topped the 15 and 20 kilometer runners in A. A. U. competition while Gregory led the field at 20 kilometers, or about 18 2-3 miles. Both helped the Millrose A. A. capture the cross country team championship, over the 10,000 meter distance, and it appears they might develop as marathon candidates.

Porter Ranks High

At present the ranking marathon runners are Mel Porter and William Steiner of the German-American A. C., New York, and August Sioboda, unattached, of Chicago. The "grand old man" of the marathoners, Clarence DeMar, who first ran the Olympic course in 1912, is no longer able to set the pace, although he is still in remarkable condition and an heroic example to our long distance runners. Leslie Pawson, of Pawtucket, R. I., a former winner of the Boston marathon, appears to be I rank him next to Mundy and Gregory at the 15 to 30 kilometer range.

New England is still the cradle of our long distance running, with Indiana, New York and the Middle Atlantic states making important contributions to its development but the same thing cannot be said in general of the Far West, Northwest and Southern sections of the country. It is to be regretted that those in control of athletics in these latter regions do not sponsor a more intensive program. There is much sleeping timber in these sections, as witness Ralph Hill, of Oregon, who made such a grand showing in the 5,000 meters at the Los Angeles Olympics in 1932. But for being fouled by the Finn, Lehtinen, Hill probably would have won this event for America.

My principal All-America cross country ranking for 1934 are as follows:

Senior A. A. U. (10,000 meters)—1. Donald Lash, Indiana; 2. Thomas Ottey, Michigan State; 3. Eino Pentti, Millrose A. A.; 4. Raymond Sears, Butler University; 5. Louis Gregory, Millrose A. A.; 6. William Zepp, Michigan Normal; 7. Paul Mundy, Millrose A. A.; 8. James T. Smith, Indiana.

Smith First Junior Choice

Junior A. A. (10,000 meters)—1. James T. Smith, Indiana; 2. Harold Auch, Shanahan C. C. Club, Philadelphia; 3. Charles Kirkpatrick, Pittsburgh; 4. John Zach, Shanahan A. C.; 5. John Bush, Indiana; 6. Robert Huffman, Ohio State; 7. Wilbur Jones, Purdue; 8. John Cleveland, Ball State Teachers.

I. C. A. A. A. Varsity (Six miles)—Thomas C. Ottey, Michigan State; 2. Edwin Veysey, Colby; 3. Nelson Gardner, Michigan State; 4. Albert Acerno, Manhattan; 5. Geo. Elks, New York University; 6. Chas. Kirkpatrick, Pittsburgh; 7. Kenneth Black, Maine.

Interscholastic (2½ miles)—1. Leonard Dauenhauer, Syracuse Central; 2. Steven Szumachowski, Mercersburg Academy; 3. Harry Butler, Morris High, New York; 4. Ray Vacca, Nott Terrace, Schenectady, N. Y.; 5. Richard Slade, Nott Terrace; 6. Cleveland Sherman, LaSalle, Providence, R. I.; 7. William Wimon, Curtis High, New York; 8. Ernest Dauenhauer, Syracuse Central.

Later on, it was tobacco that helped to clothe and feed Washington's brave army at Valley Forge.

Today it is tobacco that helps—more than any other commodity raised in this country—to pay the expense of running our Government.

In the fiscal year 1933-34 the Federal Government collected $425,000,000 from the tax on tobacco. Most of this came from cigarettes—six cents tax on every package of twenty.

Yes, the cigarette helps a lot—and it certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.

Smokers have several reasons for liking Chesterfields. For one thing, Chesterfields are milder. For another thing, they taste better. They Satisfy.

Early Colonial planters shipped hundreds of pounds of tobacco to England in return for goods and supplies.
